Program Introduction, Cliff Giles, Vice-President

EarthCaches of the Sandias

presented by Stan Davis prepared for FOSM, October 7th, 2025

October 7, 2025

23

Program Introduction, Cliff Giles, Vice-President

- EarthCaches (ECs) are a special category of geocache sponsored by the Geological Society of America.
 - Almost 30,000 ECs worldwide
 - New Mexico home to over 100, Sandias home to 17, with 12 of those being new ones the author recently “published”.
- Teach an Earth Science lesson, include tasks that reinforce that lesson, and are based on the world around us – not on informational signs.
- Talk will be a guided tour through geologic time, from the Proterozoic to the Holocene, highlighting some of the less well-known, but still fascinating, geology as represented by the new ECs.
- ECs are entirely virtual, meaning they are not associated with any physical cache container in the field. “Treasure” is the geology, and the geology is the fun!

Speaker Introduction, Cliff Giles, Vice-President

- Stan Davis
 - Retired after 35 years as a geophysicist in the oil industry
 - Moved to Albuquerque in 2019, lured in part by easy access to the outdoors and abundant trails close by in the Sandias and elsewhere in New Mexico
 - Enjoys hiking the variety of trails (and “off-trails”) here and investigating the local geology
 - Hiked more than 2,500 miles in the Sandia mountains and foothills since moving here
 - Is a volunteer for his neighborhood association and writes articles about the Sandias for the association’s newsletter
 - Became a hike leader for the New Mexico Mountain Club in 2025 and has led geology-themed hikes in the Sandias with the club
 - Member of the Pastel Society of New Mexico and enjoys painting landscapes and subjects from the Sandias
